THE WORLD OF POLITICS.

Republican Managers Looking to the Next House.

MARIA HALPIN TELLS A PITIFUL STORY

Story from the Woman's Former Employer—Exposure of the Morey Letter Forgery—Political Points—Etc.

[illegible] Aug 14—[Special.]—Among republicans [illegible] the election of Blaine and Logan is [illegible] already assured. The reports reaching [illegible] here from all sections of the country [illegible] the popularity of the national ticket among [illegible] of the people in every state north, south [illegible] give good ground for this belief, and [illegible] the republican leaders in leaving the [illegible] to the care of the people and devoting [illegible] to the work of overcoming the large [illegible] majority in the present house of representatives. In the excitement of the presidential [illegible] is not always that interest taken in the [illegible] candidates for congress as there is in the [illegible] but the nominations thus far made by [illegible] for members of the 49th congress [illegible] there is a determination among republicans [illegible] to make the next congress republican. [illegible] every case the strongest and most popular [illegible] been chosen and as a rule the nominee [illegible] to bring out the full party vote.

EFFORT TURNED TO DOUBTFUL DISTRICTS

The congressional campaign committee are making [illegible] effort to secure the election of republicans [illegible] in doubtful districts and they are [illegible] of success. Democrats admit that they [illegible] the present majority in the next [illegible] and [illegible] say that at least [illegible] will occupy seats in the next congress [illegible] are now held by democrats. They have [illegible] retaining their tidal wave majority by [illegible] at least retain enough of it to give [illegible] control of the next house.

There are at least six districts now represented by democrats that by proper efforts can be [illegible] In the first and second districts [illegible] the strongest possible nominations have [illegible] by the republicans. Ex-Congressman [illegible] at present commissioner of patents [illegible] nominated by the republicans of the first [illegible] has not yet decided to accept the nomination [illegible] strong influences are being brought to [illegible] him to accept. He can undoubtedly defeat [illegible] the present representative from that [illegible] the strongest candidate the democrats [illegible] Butterworth is unwilling to give [illegible] but it is thought he will consent [illegible] his personal wishes for the good of [illegible]

[illegible] second Ohio district the republican nominee [illegible] with the soldiers and will have no [illegible] carrying the district.

[illegible] and McKinley who were thrown out of the [illegible] will both be returned by majorities [illegible] to prevent any contest for their seats [illegible] of carrying the thirtieth and twentieth [illegible] Ohio are reported excellent.

LARGE GAINS EXPECTED

[illegible] Gibson and Wilson will undoubtedly [illegible] succeeded by republicans. At least five of [illegible] members from California will be [illegible] by republicans and five or six Pennsylvania [illegible] now represented by democrats can be [illegible] the republican candidates. In New York [illegible] and in some of the southern states [illegible] gains will be made, and in the [illegible] northwest the prospect of securing a large [illegible] republican representation in congress [illegible] is good.

[illegible] three democratic members from Massachusetts [illegible] be defeated.

[illegible] McPherson is devoting untiring energy [illegible] overcoming the large democratic majority [illegible] the present house. He realizes the [illegible] of the undertaking, but he is not discouraged. He will leave nothing undone [illegible] accomplished to succeed in the task he [illegible] and he thinks that he will [illegible] so.

MARIA HALPIN INTERVIEWED

[illegible] Aug 15—[Special.]—Special from [illegible] Mrs. Halpin said to a reporter: "I was [illegible] Flint & Kent's when Grover Cleveland [illegible] sought and made my acquaintance. My [illegible] Folsom Cleveland was born September [illegible] Grover Cleveland is his father and the [illegible] any other man was responsible for his [illegible] It does not seem possible after [illegible] suffered for Grover Cleveland and for [illegible] that a further attempt will be made [illegible] me in the eyes of the world. No one [illegible] extent of my sufferings. After my [illegible] was taken from me I begged [illegible] Cleveland on my knees to leave [illegible] my babe. I found where my boy was [illegible] one day I rushed in upon his keeper [illegible] him up and ran away before they could [illegible] My sufferings subsequently, my fruitless [illegible] to have Cleveland fulfill his promise of [illegible] his neglect of myself and our child, my [illegible] and violent treatment by his hired tools [illegible] but only partially told in the Buffalo [illegible] of July 21. It would be impossible to [illegible] what made up those years of shame suffered [illegible] forced upon me by Grover [illegible]

A SAD STORY

[illegible] says: The old gentleman to whom [illegible] statement said that in the course of a [illegible] with her she wept bitterly as she [illegible] Her manner and desperation [illegible] conviction of her sincerity. When told that [illegible] she had made or was about making [illegible] to exonerate Governor Cleveland Maria [illegible] herself up, as if preparing for a [illegible] and replied with most impressive and [illegible] "Me make a statement exonerating [illegible] Never! I should rather put a [illegible] through my heart.

[illegible] could not truthfully make any such [illegible] and Cleveland would not dare to ask her [illegible] herself again that he might enjoy [illegible] wealth while on his account she was [illegible] kindred and friends and was patiently [illegible] death to end her misery.

[illegible] into details of what she had suffered [illegible] 1877 at the hands of Cleveland or his [illegible] a story that would melt a heart of [illegible] statements are fortified by facts known [illegible] and by circumstances and records bear [illegible] eventful period of her life.

MARIA HALPIN'S FAMILY

[illegible] Aug 15—[Special.]—The Brooklyn [illegible] an interview with Robert R. Hovenden [illegible] Maria Halpin who lives at 95 [illegible] Hovenden said the story connecting [illegible] a name with the Cleveland scandal [illegible] to him until recently. Maria married [illegible] Thomas Halpin when she was nineteen [illegible] he had consumption I believe—died [illegible] My daughter went with his folks to [illegible] where we heard she was forewoman in a [illegible] establishment. Hovenden and family [illegible] respectable people. Another daughter [illegible] feel this disgrace keenly. I wish I knew [illegible] circumstances and I would tell them. My [illegible] three weeks ago. I have not met her [illegible] got married. I believe she is at New [illegible] She is with a member of our family. She [illegible] years old. Her daughter died a short [illegible]

LETTER FROM THE HALPIN'S EMPLOYER

[illegible] Aug 15—[Special.]—Mr J A Frank [illegible] second auditor's office in the treasury [illegible] received a letter to day from Judge [illegible] Fitchburg, Massachusetts, an uncle of the [illegible] member of the firm of Flynn & Kent of Buffalo [illegible] whose store Mrs. Maria Halpin was [illegible] prior to the occurrences narrated in the [illegible] published in some of the newspapers [illegible] the democratic candidate [illegible] during his residence in Buffalo. Judge [illegible] for seven years a United States consul in [illegible] he was appointed to a [illegible] the office of the second auditor of the [illegible] department which position he resigned [illegible] After the publication of the Cleveland [illegible] Mr Frank who had been an intimate [illegible] Kent while he was in the department [illegible] him asking him to inquire of his [illegible] Mrs Halpin had been in his employ [illegible] and what her character was.

A PERFECT LADY

[illegible] received to-day was in reply to this. [illegible] It gives the substance of the letter received [illegible] judge from his nephew and is to the [illegible] about ten years ago Mrs Halpin was in [illegible] of the firm—she was in their employ for [illegible] months—and was regarded by the firm [illegible] her fellow employes as a respectable [illegible] lady. She was a handsome woman [illegible] and retiring disposition. During [illegible] she was with the firm not a breath of [illegible] was ever raised that she was not in all [illegible] lady she appeared to be. She left the [illegible] of her own volition.

[illegible] after she resigned her position in the [illegible] it was learned that she was in trouble [illegible] afterwards the boy whose paternity is in [illegible] born. Up to the time she left his employ [illegible] says in the letter her character had [illegible] After the birth of the child [illegible] her downward course began.

FROM THE STAR

[illegible] Aug 15—[Special.]—The Star [illegible] its reprint of the Buffalo special containing [illegible] Halpin's interview this morning has the [illegible] editorial double leaded: Our columns [illegible] contain a story which must prove [illegible] to every American citizen. No more revolting [illegible] has appeared in a dozen campaigns [illegible] years silence and concealment a disclosure [illegible] which may well cause honest voters [illegible] the methods of campaign managers [illegible] independent democratic news, aye it is the [illegible] to publish everything of interest to the [illegible] present campaign, no matter who [illegible] Justice and truth demand [illegible] shall hold the [illegible] of party [illegible] as the public will thank us.

STORY OF THE MOREY LETTER FORGERY

[illegible] delayed expose by [illegible] John I Davenport of [illegible] published to-morrow morning [illegible] of 150 pages. It is largely [illegible] similes of documents showing for [illegible] The narrative is only a [illegible] The book sets [illegible] who actually forged the Morey [illegible] of this city named Henry B [illegible] Davenport describes him as a [illegible] insurance companies of [illegible] other matters equally precarious [illegible] intrigue and with a craving [illegible] desire to display [illegible] with public men. He [illegible] he used to show he always was a [illegible] at the time of the commission of [illegible] secretary of a republican association [illegible] which the forgery was committed [illegible] October 2 1880.

According to Hadley's admission, and [illegible] evidence collected by Davenport was [illegible] the form of an extract from a supposed [illegible] General Garfield. Davenport possessed [illegible] of about 1000 letters written by [illegible] and [illegible] all the distinctive marks of orthography and caligraphy alike in them and the forged letter.

PLAIN PROOFS

Hadley always misspelled the word religiously as it was misspelled in the forged letter and in all words ending in [illegible] such as compunction [illegible] and enemies he spelled the final syllable [illegible] the words accompany [illegible] appears in the forged letter. In the genuine correspondence Hadley invariably dotted the letter [illegible] when it occurred in a word containing an [illegible] as in the signature of the forged letter. One hundred fac similes reproduced prove this conclusively. It was on a display of this evidence of guilt that Hadley confessed his part in the crime. Hadley admits that he wrote the name Henry L Morey in the register at the Kirkland house in Lynn and substituted it for the name George E C Morey in the affidavit of Mrs Clara Morey declaring he was her son. These forgeries were made to sustain the original forgery. There was no such man as H L Morey to whom the forged letter was supposed to have been written. Nor was there any such person as John W Goodall who claimed to be executor of H L Morey and who transmitted the forged letter to Frank. Hadley wrote the Goodall letters also.

BLAINE'S SUIT AGAINST THE SENTINEL

INDIANAPOLIS Aug 15—[Special.]—Nothing has [illegible] created for years that created so much general interest as Blaine's libel suit. It is universally commented [illegible] republicans with enthusiasm and a determination [illegible] to see the case prosecuted to the bitter end. Democrats express the opinion that Blaine has pursued the only manly and honorable course left open to him and the Sentinel committed a mistake that cannot but injure the democrats in the contest. One democratic politician said to day: "If the Sentinel's publications had been made against my family I would [illegible] gunning after the editor of the Sentinel five minutes later." It is said that when a copy of Blaine's letter was received by the editor he exclaimed "Great God!" But later he refused to converse with any one about the matter. Senator Harrison has taken hold of the case and proposes to prosecute with vigor.

WASHINGTON Aug 15—[Special.]—Mr. Blaine's libel suit against the Indianapolis Sentinel provokes considerable discussion in political circles to day and the opinion is general that his prompt action in the matter will cause the story to react in his favor. There was a disposition in some quarters to deride [illegible] as [illegible] merely for effect, the trial [illegible] after the election but this was silenced by the assurance that the case must be tried in the October term of the Indiana courts and will be disposed of before election day.

BANKS AND THE AMERICAN POLITICAL ALLIANCE

LONG BRANCH Aug 15—[Special.]—General Grant referring to the report that he was willing to accept the nomination of the American Political Alliance for the presidency said: "I never heard of Ellis [illegible] who addressed me on the subject until I received a letter from him tendering me the presidential nomination of the American Political Alliance. I know nothing of either the alliance or Ellis [illegible] with the exception of what I have read in the New York papers. I have not answered the letter and I do not intend to answer it. No committee has waited on me to see if I would accept the nomination tendered in Ellsworth's letter. I am a republican and I have no interest in the alliance or its action."

A reporter called at General Fremont's office in Broadway relative to his reported acceptance of the nomination for the vice presidency. The general seemed inclined to talk [illegible] but said he might have something to say later.

LOGAN'S MOVEMENTS

UTICA N Y Aug 15—General Logan reached Utica at 10 o'clock. There was a great crowd and music and a cannonade at the depot. A procession was formed at the Butterfield house here. From the balcony here Senator Coggeshall introduced Logan. He expressed the great pleasure it gave him to meet such a cordial welcome at the hands of the citizens of Utica whose reception should ever be [illegible] fully remembered. Logan left for the west at 11:40. He will remain at Buffalo and Pittsburg for the [illegible] grand reception promised there. He expects to reach Chicago on Tuesday morning. Mrs Logan leaves at 3 this afternoon for West Point where she will spend a few days.

FROM THE SUN

NEW YORK Aug 15—[Special.]—Sun extract: Neither party can win without the aid of New York. In [illegible] there is as much probability that Butler will throw the election into the house or ever carry New York [illegible] as there is that either Blaine or Cleveland can become president without the vote of this state. Cleveland was nominated by the votes of men of the West who were prepared to admit that he was not strong in their states but showed wonderful strength in New York. Now New York democrats are telling us that their candidate may be weak here but he is tremendously strong out West. Cleveland seems to be a sort of chills and fever candidate.

FROM THE TRIBUNE

NEW YORK Aug 15—[Special.]—The Tribune this morning says: Facts enough have already been given to the public and admitted by his friends to stamp Cleveland as a man without character or qualifications for the high office he seeks. But the half has not been told. The Tribune has had a correspondent at work in Buffalo searching out the truth in regard to this scandal in the [illegible] public record. To morrow we shall present the first installment of Cleveland's experience as sheriff.

FUSION ELECTORAL TICKET

DES MOINES Aug 15—The democratic and greenback central committee held a secret session here yesterday and after a stormy session decided to [illegible] a fusion on the electoral ticket, the greenbackers taking six and the democrats seven of the candidates for electors.

CHOCTAW GOVERNOR ELECTED

FT SMITH August 15—According to returns from the Choctaw nation Edmund McCurtain, brother of the present incumbent is elected governor of the Choctaws by a majority of over 300.

CAMPAIGN DISCUSSION

New York Sun: The appeals on behalf of free trade will be brilliant and admirable but the votes will remain on the side of protection. It is the American side.

New York Star (Tammany): As for Cleveland was there ever a candidate [illegible] by the mighty democratic party—not excepting Horace Greeley—who went into the campaign with such threatening elements of defeat surrounding him?

Minneapolis Tribune: Suppose Mr Harper had become Mr Blaine's publisher. Would he have derided him and vilified him as a charlatan, a fraud and a political leper in editorials and cartoons scattered over the whole country?

Philadelphia Press: Butler's letter is plain proof to Mr Cleveland that as soon as his letter appears the leader of the Massachusetts delegation to Chicago will [illegible] Mr Cleveland knew what it will be [illegible] General Butler is keen, shrewd and caustic with [illegible] and he will go through Cleveland like [illegible] going through a country barn. No wonder that Cleveland takes to the woods.

The Irish World: Every one of the great London papers is against us and desires the success of the free trade candidate. What is the reason? The London press knows well what they are about [illegible] England and America are opposing candidates [illegible] the London Times?

Chicago Tribune: Those religious papers which were talking politics with the most fervor and unction a few weeks ago are now deeply absorbed in questions of abstract morals, theological [illegible] and [illegible] interest. The Cleveland [illegible] the political wind out of the [illegible] several weeks. Perhaps they will like to recall certain [illegible] utterances of a month or two ago.

New York Sun: That active and judicious journal, the Galveston Daily News, makes this logical and [illegible] proposal: The democratic national committee should [illegible] commissioner to investigate Editor Dana's grievance against Grover Cleveland. It is not necessary. Our grievance is of the simplest and plainest nature. There is nothing about it to require investigation. We have published it repeatedly and will publish it again whenever it is asked for. We hold that Grover Cleveland is not fitted to be president and that he has done nothing to merit such promotion.

Boston Journal: The personal issue raised by the republican bolters is becoming troublesome. If they could recall the platform which they gave to the country two weeks ago they would [illegible] change the first sentence which declares that the questions involved in this campaign are more moral than political. When they made this declaration they invited an inquiry into the private character of their candidate for president which brought to light a most unsavory scandal. Not one of them has dared to take the responsibility of saying that the matters alleged against Gov Cleveland are not true. A few of the perfectionists have [illegible] recovered from the shock produced by the bursting of this bombshell as to say they don't want any [illegible] slinging. The [illegible] which struck their candidate was filled with something worse than mud. [illegible] Greek fire could not have been more [illegible] in its touch.

New York Tribune: Mr Schurz is not the [illegible] to purity of motive or personal integrity of President White or President Anderson or [illegible] Whittier or Mr Lodge or the Hon. Sherman S Rogers or William M Evarts or Governor [illegible] or Judge E R Hoar. So much at least may be said without passing the limits of [illegible] courtesy. [illegible] declared a man unfit to be president [illegible] taken a seat in his cabinet. The same may be said of honest men [illegible] against Mr Blaine [illegible] nothing that ought to weigh [illegible] public contempt.

A Confident Greenback Editor

WASHINGTON Aug 8—The National [illegible] organ of the greenbackers [illegible] is strong for Butler. Its editor [illegible] will take enough votes from [illegible] Blaine [illegible] to prevent either of [illegible] There is one thing [illegible] nothing can be said against his private character. He has never allowed the [illegible] He will [illegible] any woman alone [illegible] He has always had witnesses to every interview that he has had with a woman. More than that he would never stop in the corridors or anywhere else to talk with a woman unless some one was with him. They have often tried to catch him, but Benjamin is sly—devilish sly.

THE IRISH LEAGUE CONVENTION AT BOSTON

Warrant Issued for the Arrest of Governor Ireland of Texas—The Denver Strike Ended—General News Notes

Discovery of Relics of the Jeannette

PHILADELPHIA Aug 15—Captain Wilson of the bark [illegible] at this port from [illegible] furnishes the following: On June [illegible] off Julianshaab [illegible] 60.3 north [illegible] west, the lower part of a tent was found by Esquimaux on an ice floe in drift ice, the upper part of which seemed to have been blown away with the ends of a [illegible] or provision case marked "Jeannette." The contents in the store were also marked and included a check book on the Bank of California signed by De Long, a pair of oil skin trousers of Louis Noros and a bearskin which [illegible] something of the [illegible] and [illegible] but the [illegible] returns it to ascertain what was [illegible]

John Jarrett Left.

WASHINGTON Aug 15—[Special.]—The action of the president in withholding the commission of John Jarrett as chief of the bureau of labor statistics [illegible] that bureau in an unorganized state and the work which its friends claim could be done during the summer recess cannot be begun. It is now reported that the gentleman to whom the president will soon issue the commission is Thomas B Connery, formerly editorial manager of the New York Herald and now of Truth. The relations between Mr Arthur and Mr Connery are of long standing.

New York Strike.

NEW YORK August 15—[Special.]—Misleading reports have been sent abroad respecting the progress of the bricklayers' strike. Your reporter learned this morning from good authority that the bricklayers have virtually succeeded and only a small number remain unemployed. Two large contractors succumbed to day and yesterday.

The Week's Failures

NEW YORK Aug 15—Failures throughout the country in seven days as reported by R G Dun & Co number in the United States 203, Canada 17, total 220 as against 222 last week, showing a decrease of 12. Casualties are heavy in the Pacific states and in other sections of the country are about up to average and light in Canada.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR GOV. IRELAND'S ARREST

GALVESTON Aug 15—A warrant was to day issued by United States Commissioner Sbann for the arrest of John Ireland, governor of Texas, for violation of section 5510 of the revised statutes of the United States. Emil Francois, upon whose complaint the warrant was issued, was convicted in 1870 under the anti-miscegenation statute of Texas and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. On the 11th inst Judge Sabine of the United States court granted a hearing to Francois on a writ of habeas corpus. When the case was called for hearing the state announced that the governor had granted a full pardon to Francois, whereupon the writ was dismissed and an order of court entered discharging Francois. [illegible] Francois refused to accept the governor's pardon, alleging that it did not restore him to citizenship and he preferred rather to rely on the judgment rendered in dismissal of the writ and his discharge from custody by the court or the best evidence of his liberty and [illegible] In his affidavit Francois deposes that Ireland as governor of Texas with the penitentiary officials conspired and confederated together for the purpose of depriving him of the rights and privileges secured by the constitution and laws of the United States. Francois is pure white. He married a colored woman whose complexion was fairer than his own. The state claimed he was convicted [illegible] provided for [illegible] the punishment of white persons in cases of miscegenation. He claims the [illegible] discriminated against. The warrant for the arrest of the governor was placed in the hands of Marshal Tracy to-night. The affair attracts great attention.

SEVERAL PEOPLE POISONED

CHARLESTON W Va Aug 15—[Special.]—While the family of Julian Dickinson was away from home on a visit a colored female servant put a quantity of arsenic in a crock of milk in the spring house. On returning home the family together with a neighbor named Miller and a boy drank of the milk and soon after were taken sick. The servant was arrested.

BRUTAL PRIZE FIGHT

PITTSBURG Aug 15—Ed George and Buck Gerhart, well known local pugilists, engaged in a bare knuckle prize fight in a secret cellar last night for a purse of $100. The fight took place in a basement [illegible] and was won by Gerhart in 27 rounds. Both men were terribly punished. George was so weak that he was unable to leave the room.

RAILROAD NOTES

THE DENVER STRIKE ENDED

DENVER Aug 15—The Union Pacific strikers here will resume work to morrow morning. A telegram from [illegible] representing [illegible] at Omaha says all trouble there are [illegible] ended.

OMAHA Aug 15—The committee of Union Pacific shopmen who have been on a strike arrived here to-day and had a conference with General Manager Clarke. It appears that the trouble arose from a reduction of wages in the shops at Ellis and the laying off of the men at Denver, the result being a strike in all the shops of the road. Clarke said the reduction was unauthorized and unknown to him until he saw an account of the strike. The result was that he issued an order restoring old rates at Ellis and returning to work the men laid off at Denver and promising there would not again be any reduction of wages. If necessary [illegible] furnish work for all the hands of labor could be used.

THE MONEY TENDERED

NEW YORK August 15—Representatives of the Oregon & Transcontinental company have tendered Kuhn, Loeb & Co. a check for $250,000 in payment of the sterling loan maturing to-day. It will be remembered the firm sold [illegible] collaterals for the loan some time ago. The company made complaint to the stock exchange governing committee but the governor refused to arbitrate the matter. The firm gives no indications as to whether they accept or reject the money. The check was tendered by Elijah Smith, H. Holmes and R G Halston, president of the Farmers Loan and Trust company.

WILL WITHDRAW

ST LOUIS Aug 15—The Texas and Pacific railroad has notified the Transcontinental association that it will withdraw from the association [illegible] days from July 31. This action together with the withdrawal of the Atlantic and Pacific some time ago will probably be discussed at a meeting of the association to be held at Saratoga September 3 and the opinion prevails that the association will be dissolved.

THE TURF

FINE EXHIBITIONS AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA Aug 15—Not since the day when Maud S trotted the [illegible] three consecutive heats ever trotted 2 12¾, 2 13 and 2 14 has there been such an attendance at the Belmont course as was gathered there to-day when Jay Eye See and Phallas attempted to break the record made by Maud S and 2 13¾ for six [illegible] by the stallion himself at Oil [illegible] but [illegible] by both horses more than met the expectations of a majority of the spectators. Jay Eye See beat the record for three quarters of a mile [illegible] but for a losing break just after entering the last quarter without doubt he would have clipped a second or more off of Maud S. [illegible] time. Phallas failed to equal his own best performance but he trotted the three fastest consecutive heats ever [illegible] by a stallion, the slowest being better than the [illegible] of any other stallion. The attendance was from 10,000 to 12,000 people.

THE RACES AT SARATOGA

NEW YORK Aug 15—[Special.]—A special from Saratoga says: When the speculators mopped the [illegible] ridden [illegible] and necks and dodged [illegible] the east end of the betting [illegible] they thought [illegible] of Baldwin's colt Verano [illegible] Verano's increase their wealth by carrying [illegible] in the finish making a dash of three-quarters [illegible] and had three lengths to spare at [illegible] close.

For the third race, mile and a furlong, Buchanan [illegible] Jim R, [illegible] was favorite over the field, but the result of the race showed that he did not even get a place.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year—Demonstration in the Evening

BOSTON Aug 14—Alexander Sullivan was received with the wildest excitement. He said it was understood that St. Patrick had driven all the reptiles out of Ireland but creatures had been discovered there which had not been classified in nature. They were born in the crevices of Dublin Castle. Those creatures had been found by one who wielded the pen of John Mitchell with the grace of Thomas Davis. In consideration of the services of William O'Brien Sullivan moved that the league forward him $1000. Carried unanimously by a rising vote amid great cheering.

On motion of Judge Pendergast of Illinois it was voted to proceed to elect one of the officers and then a recess be taken until that work was completed.

Judge Boland of Colorado moved and Thomas P Sexton seconded the nomination of Alexander Sullivan for re-election. Both spoke of him in high terms. [illegible] and other delegates supported the nomination. There being no other nominations Sullivan was declared unanimously elected by a rising vote.

While Sullivan was being conducted to the platform the delegates [illegible] triumph [illegible] the boys are marching. Sullivan was evidently deeply affected and while declaring his fealty to Ireland and his willingness to fight for her in a constitutional battle or a battle in arms said he was not sure but that he would prefer the latter. [illegible] cheers were [illegible] then completely [illegible]

His resignation was reluctantly accepted and Patrick Egan former treasurer was then elected president by acclamation.

Neil O'Brien of Missouri, Thomas Doherty of Boston and Maurice T Wilhere of Philadelphia were chosen vice presidents.

Father O'Reilly was re-elected treasurer and Father Roger Walsh secretary.

A national executive committee was chosen and resolutions of regret at the death of Wendell Phillips were passed.

Adjourned with the song "God Save Ireland."

DEMONSTRATION IN THE EVENING

What was styled Irish National oratorical and political demonstrations took place to night in the Institute fair building. Hall [illegible] the chief event [illegible] announced the arrival of Governor Robinson and party with an escort of the ninth regiment. Immediately behind the governor came General B F Butler and they ascended the platform. The 10,000 or more men arose and the cheering, clapping of hands and waving of handkerchiefs lasted for some time.

[illegible] Councilman Collins and Mayor Martin next appeared [illegible] followed by delegates. Then the ninth regiment marched in taking a post [illegible] the rear. Governor Robinson and General Butler sat side by side with Father McKinnon near by and the rest of the platform was occupied by men and women of prominence in the movement.

Governor Robinson presided. He was received with enthusiasm as he stepped forward and said it was a very pleasant duty to give congratulations on the work of the convention of the last two days. Massachusetts is a place where men may well meet [illegible] to [illegible] than Faneuil Hall where advocates of liberty have spoken from all lands. The nation which maintains liberty will have sympathy for any nation that is demanding its rights of mankind.

Mr [illegible] was introduced as the member from Wexford and delivered an eloquent address dwelling upon the political situation in Ireland.

Letters were read from Congressman Collins, [illegible] President Elliott of Harvard, ex Governor [illegible] of Massachusetts and others.

A LETTER FROM CLEVELAND

[illegible] Cleveland wrote: "I thank you for the remembrance and for your invitation to attend the [illegible] of the same. The [illegible] occurs [illegible] I shall be absent [illegible] which I have already made [illegible] engagement. [illegible] is thus impossible for me to attend."

[illegible] Butler said that Ireland in not a long time would be free. History would repeat itself unless [illegible] took a lesson and let the Irish go. This country would not permit her citizens to be taken [illegible] where for trial for doings here. This same difficulty [illegible] the unfortunate nation had been [illegible] an attack on St James lately [illegible] Massachusetts man. [illegible] God and the voice of the people [illegible] might be found who would improve [illegible] Ireland was growing in strength [illegible] and [illegible] would be able to say. Thus far shall thou go and no further.

Mayor Martin and Mrs Parnell made short addresses. [illegible] enthusiasm with [illegible] could be heard [illegible] throughout the [illegible] of the meeting [illegible]

THE ARCTIC HORROR.

Kislingbury's Brother Makes Grave Charges Against Greely.

CANNIBALISM JUSTIFIED BY NAVY OFFICERS

An Arctic Explorer Blames Hazen for the Whole Affair—The Records and Relics at Washington—Notes.

ROCHESTER N Y, Aug 15—In an interview with a Times representative this evening W H Kislingbury, brother of the deceased, outlined the condition of things which as he thinks led to the belief that the Greely expedition was divided into parties or factions and one perished because the others had gained possession by force of the food supply. In this the ostracised party were Lieutenant Kislingbury and Dr Pavy. The condition of Lieutenant Kislingbury's body shows that he had died of starvation at a time when the others had some food supply. There was absolutely nothing in his stomach and in the intestines were lumps of indigestible matter. There were [illegible] indications of rupture as told in the story of his joining himself.

W H Kislingbury opposed exhuming the remains of his brother up to Wednesday night.

According to the report of the survivors Kislingbury had [illegible] a Polar bear three days before he died. The party were rescued three weeks after he died and Kislingbury's body shows no evidence of having partaken of the bear. In fact the fleshy parts of the lieutenant's body having been cut off in a careful and scientific manner shows that the bear story might have been invented by some one to conceal the horrible truth. Instead of eating a bear the survivors subsisted on the bodies of their dead companions.

In the opinion of Kislingbury Dr Pavy saw in advance the outcome of the desperate struggle for subsistence and ended his life or fell a victim to the lean ration of the immediate adherents of Greely. In other words it was a case in which those not in favor with the commander were compelled to die that the others might live.

Kislingbury takes this gloomy view: That there was a struggle among the starving and desperate men and that the strongest by virtue of authority and the possession of the little food on hand survived. Lieutenant Kislingbury it seems was under Greely's displeasure from the beginning.

CANNIBALISM JUSTIFIED

NEW YORK Aug 15—[Special.]—Upon the Rochester story being told at the Arctic fleet at the navy yard here yesterday the officers fell free to talk. One officer told [illegible] see the story of the eating of the bodies as it had been told to him. He was indignant that the facts had not been permitted to go into [illegible] the archives of the department but now that all was known he held that the survivors were to be honored and not blamed for the lengths they had gone to keep alive. "Do you think it was not choice that the wretched men brought themselves to feed on such flesh?" he asked. "Can you imagine anything more loathsome to the men themselves than their first descent upon these corpses which had been but a few hours before their living loving friends? Do you for a moment believe they loved this fleshy nauseating food? It was easier to die than live upon their brothers' flesh but their duty to their country forbade them dying and like noble men they kept the feeble spark alive at the cost of anything but life itself. I honor them for it. It is the very irony of heroism. When all the stories of arctic suffering have been written and the saga of arctic heroism have been sung, then all will stand agreed that these men who did their duty to the country bravely [illegible] the world the record of their three years' toil and if you could but hear the survivors tell of their real hunger, of the awful sufferings they had, I think you would not blame them for this last sad step."

THE STORIES TRUE

NEW YORK Aug 15—Third officer Kelly of the steamer Bear this morning said the reports of the eating of the flesh of Lieut [illegible] and private Henry were true as the survivors [illegible] on board were all but delirious and admitted they had to use the dead bodies to preserve their own lives. The chief of the Bear said all the survivors stated they had to eat the flesh of the dead, all of them [illegible] a little leather or seal skin being given out. All the men on board the Bear knew it. The bodies had been eaten but were told not to speak about it when they got into port.

PRIVATE HENRY'S REMAINS

NEW YORK Aug 15—Coroner Robinson of Long Island City has written to Mrs Dora Buck at Lincoln, Nebraska, the sister of private Henry asking if she desires the remains exhumed. She replied she would do so, if [illegible] have them examined by [illegible] Kislingbury's [illegible] citizens of Long Island City are greatly excited but the coroner refuses to exhume Henry's body until authorized by his sister.

THE RECORDS AND RELICS

WASHINGTON Aug 15—The records and relics of the Greely Arctic expedition which were brought to New York and there turned over to the authority at Governor's Island were brought here to day and delivered to the chief signal officer. They will be used by Lieutenant Greely only in making his report of the expedition and by the chief signal officer in making his report to the secretary of war. The collection includes all the records of scientific work and discoveries of the Greely party, their instruments and private papers and diaries of the members. When the expedition was fitted out every member was supplied with blank books in which to keep their personal records of events of their stay in the Arctic regions. It was the understanding that these records were their personal property and not subject to the supervision of Lieutenant Greely or any one else. Seventeen of them have been preserved. Their contents will be considered confidential between the government and the writers and while portions of them will be used in making up the history of the expedition no thing they contain will be made public until Lieutenant Greely's report of the expedition is completed. General Hazen says it may be a year before Greely's report is finished.

COMMENT AT WASHINGTON

NEW YORK Aug 15—[Special.]—Herald's Washington: There appears to be some feeling here among army officers now that the cause of Private Henry's death has been officially related because the secret was not told before. Military honors were shown to the remains. It is said these would have been omitted had the secretary of war been told of the manner of his death. Neither would he nor other [illegible] connected with the army have attended the funeral. Hazen says he was told by Greely of his order to shoot Henry on the night when he was visiting Pittsburgh. On the other hand it is claimed that to have denied the remains of Henry a soldier's burial would have caused harsh criticism unless the full reasons had been made public. [illegible] decision and at that time Greely was in the doctor's care and all mental effort on his part was forbidden. His official report could not at that time have been prepared.

CROSS REMAINS TO REMAIN UNDISTURBED

WASHINGTON August 15—[Special.]—The remains of Sergeant Cross will not be exhumed. The casket was to have been opened this evening, but at the earliest request of the widow and mother the brothers of Cross decided to allow the body to remain undisturbed. They say that the examination made of the remains of Lieutenant Kislingbury shows that cannibalism was practised beyond doubt. Mrs Cross' widow holds to the belief that her husband died too early to have fallen a victim to cannibalism and she and the mother of the deceased have all along been opposed to disturbing the remains, preferring to think of the husband and son as they last saw him in life and the brothers have no wish to convince them of a fact on which they are satisfied themselves that the survivors of the expedition have eaten the flesh of the dead.

AN OLD EXPLORER INTERVIEWED

The Cyclone to-night prints an interview with one of the members of the Beebe-Sapp [illegible] This gentleman is an intimate friend of Norman, ice pilot on the Beebe expedition, the Beebe expedition and the original Greely expedition. He says that Norman told him there was trouble among the party from the start. He is quoted as saying the greatest mistake was made by Hazen in the Neptune expedition. He put at the head of the [illegible] in charge of a private of the signal corps Beebe, who was his private secretary and his aide-de-camp at the battle of Shiloh where he was a witness of the bravery displayed by Hazen in getting to the rear. Beebe had no control over the captain of the vessel. Captain Sapp had never been up there before and he did not like to get into ice. He and Beebe disagreed nearly all the time. At one time we were within 144 miles of Greely and could have reached him, but we would not have come back that season. All of the party wanted to go ahead except Captain Sapp.

A WARM DISPUTE

The contract that Hazen had made with the owners of the vessel gave the captain the discretion of not going into ice after the 1st of September. On August 2 there was a splendid chance to go up to Kennedy channel, but the captain was afraid to take advantage of it. He suddenly turned westward in the direction of Cape Hawkins and next day he went back to Littleton island. Beebe protested against such a course and called the captain a coward. The captain called him a liar and I thought they were coming to blows.

The gentleman is quoted as saying that Hazen paid Norman $120 not to testify in the Proteus court of inquiry.

A member of congress is quoted as saying to-day: If General Hazen had been a competent man and had given the proper instructions to Garlington as to the distribution of his stores not one man of the Greely party would have died of hunger. I cannot see how the war department can do other than court martial Hazen. He is wholly incompetent to fill the high position he now occupies.

CANADA

THE GRAIN CROP OF TORONTO

TORONTO Aug 15—According to the supplement to [illegible] report of the bureau [illegible] the prospects for good grain crops in Ontario is assured. Fall wheat gives an average yield of 21½, spring wheat 18½ bushels to the acre. The aggregate productions exceeds last year's harvest by 10,500,000 bushels. Barley is a good crop in southern counties but northern and northeastern counties are affected by drouth. The grain though plump and heavy, was damaged by rain the last week in July. The oat crops accounts are similar to those for barley but being two or three weeks late in ripening has been greatly benefitted by the July rains.

CAMPAIGN SCANDAL

A STORY ABOUT BLAINE BUT NO NAMES GIVEN

CHICAGO Aug 10—The long promised story about Blaine's alleged peccadilloes with a woman when he was a school teacher in the blue grass region of Kentucky has at last been given publicity. The Times of this city this morning published two columns about the matter under date of Millersburg, Bourbon county, Ky. Omitting unnecessary descriptive verbiage the story is as follows: That in 1850, 51 or nearly thirty five years ago one Colonel Thornton J Johnson had two schools near Millersburg, one called the western military institute for boys, the other a seminary for girls. That Blaine then a young man was employed as teacher in the boys' school, was called Major Blaine and wore a stunning military uniform with nodding plumes (correspondent suggests that he might have secured the title of plumed knight from this fact); that in the female department was a pretty and polite teacher to whom Blaine paid assiduous court, spending most of his time between Friday evening and Monday morning in her company; that after a time whispers began to go around that there were visible signs of the result of all of this billing and cooing, that it became an open secret that the young woman was in an interesting condition, that the scandal broke up the school, that Blaine left never to return and that not long after the young woman also left and has not been heard of since.

This is all. The name of the young woman is not given. A number of alleged affidavits are published to which every name except that of Blaine is carefully omitted, even that of the alleged notary before whom the alleged affidavits profess to have been made. Altogether the accusation as made is very weak.

It has been known for some time that the proof slips of this story were in the possession of a number of leading democratic papers for publication. In New York a few days ago Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal said it had been offered to his paper but that his men had investigated the story and exploded it and that as far as he and his paper were concerned it would find no countenance.

REFUTATION OF THE CHARGE BY DEMOCRATIC JOURNALS

LOUISVILLE Ky Aug 11—In 1876 the Paris True Kentuckian, a weekly paper printed at Paris, Kentucky, published a scandalous story to the effect that while James G Blaine was teaching school at Georgetown, Ky., he had seduced a pretty New England girl who was teaching in Miss Jackson's fashionable boarding school for young ladies at Lexington. The same paper also declared that when the matter became public Blaine fled from popular indignation taking the young lady with him. The Frankfort Yeoman, a semi weekly democratic organ of which J Stoddard Johnson is the editor, followed up the story printed in the Paris Kentuckian with another one of much the same import. Shortly after the scandal had begun to go the rounds and not long before the national republican convention of 1876 the Louisville Courier Journal sent a reporter to investigate the charges and the result was the complete vindication of the statesman's character and the lady's virtue. The Courier Journal at that time editorially disapproved the charges. A representative of the N. Y. Herald who had been sent to Scott and Fayette counties to inquire into the true inwardness of the scandal returned to Louisville to-day. To-night in conversation with your correspondent this gentleman declared that the charges were utterly without foundation and had been invented by a few old maids and village gossips who envied the young woman and her dashing lover.

Character in Candidates

The Rev Dr West in the Advance

It is now at least three weeks since a letter to the Advance from one of the foremost pastors in Buffalo charged Governor Cleveland with the grossest immorality. The letter appeared in a daily journal without design or desire of ours through the surreptitious management of a reporter. We have not by any fable referred to it. Since our reception of it substantially the same charges have been published in full by the Buffalo Evening Telegraph and repeated through the country. Other prominent pastors in Buffalo commit themselves to the same statements. No man conscious of innocence would we should suppose allow an hour to pass after the appearance of so fatal a report without demanding a retraction. We have waited for that patiently and in vain. Meanwhile specifications as well as witnesses increase. The lapse of nearly a month with no denial is settling the public in the conviction that no denial is possible. The Advance is not a partisan either for Mr Blaine or against Mr Cleveland. If a report of anything so infamous as this were in circulation regarding the republican candidate we should say precisely what we say to-day. We speak only for common morality and decency and the honor of the American people. The executive mansion has ever in our entire history been disgraced by the occupancy of such a man as Mr Cleveland is represented to be. No great party since the time of Aaron Burr has ever insulted the nation by asking its suffrages for such a man. If Pagan Caesar's wife must be above suspicion in the first century much more the president of a great Christian people in the nineteenth. The intimation in some quarters that citizens have nothing to do with the private character of a nominee for the presidency is a disgraceful intimation. If any politician supposes that the American people will hold up to all Christendom a Leon Gambetta as their chosen representative he does not know them. We should sincerely rejoice if Mr Cleveland could clear his record. It is high time to do it. Every citizen who respects himself will join the demand that he shall either do it promptly and thoroughly or withdraw from this canvass.

The Independent Republicans

New York Star (Tammany)

Some sanguine arithmeticians figure out that the independent republican bolt is extending at such a rate as to not only assure every doubtful state to the democratic ticket but to create a political revolution in five or six states that have gone republican in every presidential contest since 1860. We should be pleased to accept these conclusions, if we could but the proofs are far from convincing. We are not at all persuaded that the republicans who re-elected Grant and applauded the electoral fraud and enthused for Garfield as against Hancock will revolt in any large numbers from Blaine and Logan.

Most of our readers will recall the republican defection of 1872. So formidable did it appear that it held a separate national convention and the subsequent democratic convention indorsed its ticket which seemed certain to win. In its ranks were to be found many of the greatest men of the republican party—Sumner, Banks, Brown, Davis, Adams, Trumbull, Greeley, Schurz and others. It was supported by many of the most influential republican papers not in New York alone but throughout the country—including the Chicago Tribune, the Cincinnati Commercial and the Springfield Republican. Yet we all know to what a miserable fiasco it resulted.

This year the republican revolt is far less impressive and far less extensive than in 1872. It is a movement conducted exclusively by officers without privates. They make a noise in the newspapers and [illegible] support with the influence they can bring to exert at the ballot box. Moreover their tactics and their methods are calculated to repel democrats from the democratic ticket as they did twelve years ago.

These independents should of course be welcomed but they should wear a less dictatorial air if they really desire to accomplish the defeat of Blaine. In our judgment if the democratic ticket is elected it must be by democratic votes.

Human Nature in the Harper Family

Chicago Tribune

Mr Joseph W Harper Jr sputters through an entire column in a letter to a newspaper in which he makes a labored effort to demonstrate that the failure of his firm to secure the publication of Blaine's book had nothing to do with the refusal of Harper's Weekly to support Blaine for president. Mr Harper should not stir up this matter. All the demonstration he is able to make with the assistance of Mr Curtis will not avail against the cold fact that he applied to Mr Blaine's most intimate friend for the job of publishing the book, that in such application he eulogized Mr Blaine in the highest terms and that failing to secure the book his periodicals denounce and slander Blaine in every issue. Now does anybody suppose for one moment that if the Harpers had secured the lucrative job of publishing Blaine's book they would not have warmly supported him for president? Of course they would. It is ridiculous for the Harpers to pretend they wouldn't. As Harper was Blaine's publisher would have heralded Blaine's nomination for president as a big stroke of business which would add immensely to the sales and the Harper profits but the same Harper whom Blaine declined as a publisher can find no good in Blaine or his book. There is evidently a great deal of human nature in the Harper family.

A Woman's Views.

Mrs Livermore addressing the Woman's Suffrage party says the Pittsburg nominations are not such as the friends of women can support. She says:

If Governor Cleveland be the immoral man he is represented—and there has been no responsible denial of the charge which was in current circulation long before he was thought of for the presidency—he is wholly unfit to be the standard bearer of the American people. A man whose private character would exclude him from decent society should not be installed in the white house as the host of the nation and the dispenser of its hospitalities. Could respectable women be expected to attend the receptions of such a president? Either James G Blaine or Governor Cleveland will be elected to the presidency. There is no chance for St John, immaculate as he is in all respects. Were an habitual drunkard nominated for the presidency women would work to prevent his election by all fair and honest means. The election to the chief magistracy of an habitually unchaste man would be an equal calamity. Should not all women exert their influence to hinder so unfortunate a consummation?

Tattooed with Republican Scars.

Buffalo Commercial Advertiser

Ex Senator Roscoe Conkling, in an accidental way very neatly turned the charge that Blaine is a tattooed man. "Mr Blaine is tattooed," said Mr Conkling, "but he is tattooed from head to foot with republican scars. He has been at the front in every fight which republicans have been engaged in for the last twenty years." This is no exaggeration of the naked fact. Mr Blaine has been to the fore front of every fight for the Union and good government waged these many years.

Making the Matter Worse.

Albany Evening Journal

Papers like the Springfield Republican and the Boston Herald which have tried to help Governor Cleveland's cause by arguing that greater men than he, such as Webster, Hamilton and Clay, were all guilty of worse practices are really responsible for the intensity of the feeling manifested by conscientious men and women. The people—the Christian people—will not listen to such an argument. It only makes the matter worse—much worse.

The young man from the country and his girl were drifting slowly into an ice cream saloon, when the following met his eye: "Vanilla chocolate, lemon and strawberry ice cream, $1 50 per gal." He turned and fled.

Crocker Smiles Sarcastically.

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 15—[Special.]—The Evening Post has the following: President Crocker smiled sarcastically this morning as he read in a morning contemporary a reliable report from Portland, Oregon, that his recent visit to the north was to look into the matter of leasing the Oregon and California road. He said: "There is little or nothing reliable in the whole telegram. The matter of leasing those roads was discussed some time ago but has been dropped for the time. Of course it may be revived, sooner or later but I don't think just now. The object of my visit was to look over Vancouver island, as I had never been in that part of the country. The road runs from Victoria to Nanaimo and is jointly owned by Dunsmuir and ourselves. It will be an important line. Surveys are completed, the contracts are almost all let, material is on hand and work will be commenced within a week or two. I was extremely pleased with the country and the outlook for a road and its development."

The Oregon and California

[Special.]—The last bridge across the Sacramento on the California and Oregon extension road will be completed to day. It is expected that the road will be fully completed about September 1. It is thought the time table will be changed so that the northbound train will reach Redding at 6 30 P. M.

[Special.]—In the early part of next month the overland trips to Portland through the completion of the California and Oregon railway to Delta, will be done in about two days and a half from San Francisco. The fifth bridge about thirty three miles from Redding has been completed, the grading is finished and material is on hand for the completion of track laying. A through train will be run from this city via Davisville, Woodland, Willows and Red Bluff leaving here at 8 A. M. and arriving at Delta at 7 P. M.

Nellie Brackett Makes a Confession

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 15—To morrow's Alta will publish a statement that Nellie Brackett, who played a prominent part as witness for plaintiff in the Sharon divorce case while it was being tried, has made a written confession that she is cognizant of the forgery of the "My dear wife" letters by plaintiff Miss Hill. The alleged forgery consists of the insertion of the word "wife." Her statement further alleges that the marriage contract was written by plaintiff over Senator Sharon's signature [illegible] a piece of paper stolen from his room at the Palace hotel by plaintiff. She also alleges that the form of the marriage contract was furnished by George W Tyler, counsel for plaintiff in the [illegible]

Latest News from Juneau

VICTORIA August 15—The following from Juneau, Alaska, dated August 10: The miners are doing very well this season. Every man that wants work can get it as laborers are very scarce in the camp.

The large excursion of school teachers arrived here yesterday and are having a splendid time and very fine and pleasant weather.

Captain J B Coughlan of the United States steamer Adams has been doing some very good work this summer. He has been surveying Peril straits and Wrangel narrows and has found several dangerous rocks and has put buoys and beacons on them. Captain Coughlan has done more good work for the people in Alaska this year than all the rest that the American government has done for sixteen years and everybody is sorry that the Adams and her commander are about to leave our waters.

Times are very lively in the mines. [illegible] Sheldon Jackson has arrived with $20,000 to spend in building schools and churches for the poor Indians.

The salmon catch has been very light in Alaska this year, amounting to only 1500 barrels.

Gloomy Business Prospects in England.

London Times

In its summary of English trade for the first half of 1884 the Times remarks that the rather gloomy anticipations regarding trade prospects which were entertained at the beginning of the year have been justified. The volume of business is still large but is undergoing a certain contraction except in the woolen and worsted trade and one or two minor industries. The shipping trade has become decidedly worse during the six months and nothing seems likely to improve it. Even the most sanguine ship owners have made up their minds that they will have to run most vessels at a very small profit, and a few at actual loss until the superabundance of steam shipping which depresses the freight market has disappeared by the action of natural causes. Shipbuilding is, for the present dead. Very many shipbuilding yards especially in the north of England are completely idle, and the number is increasing. The abrupt check to shipbuilding accounts in part for the depression in the iron trade but the trade suffers also from the diminished demand from America for railway material. The coal trade shares naturally to a considerable extent, the depression in the iron trade but the coal owners are doing better on the whole than during the depression of 1874 79. The cotton trade is stationary and competition, both at home and abroad, is so intense that profits are hard to make but the situation is no worse than at the beginning of the year and there is a steady increase in the weekly consumption of raw material in Lincolnshire which seems to indicate that English manufacturers are holding their own well.

The condition of the distributing classes is even less satisfactory than that of the producers. The markets for most commodities have for some time past fallen continuously. The produce markets in particular have defied calculation. The impression is gaining ground that the average level of prices will not in the future be as high as in the past. Heavy losses have been [illegible] but it is likely that the consequence [illegible] further fall will be much less mischievous that those of the formidable decline of the last year or two. The immediate prospects, in the opinion of the Times, are cheerless and the revival when it comes is likely to come from the United States.

Defense by Confession.

New York Sun

What will be the effect upon the minds of wavering voters of the revelations, supposing that only so much is true as is openly admitted in the versions of the scandal supplied by Governor Cleveland's independent supporters? It seems to us that a great deal depends on the manner in which the immediate friends and responsible representatives of the democratic candidate shall be able to meet and overcome the defense of these volunteer defenders.

It affords me pleasure to assure you that after using Dr C McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills for more than twenty years in my family, that I regard them as being superior to any I have ever used or have seen used. I have not had them constantly and had to try others, and I have tried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so promptly, profitably and nicely as McLane's. I have used them on myself, wife and children, with the most gratifying results.

For children, having used them on my own with such easy and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do it well, and leave no ill effects behind.

As a bile remover, as a liver corrector, as a forerunner preparing the system for quinine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. I expect to use them as long as I live, if they continue as good as they have been in the past.

Yours truly

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 16, 1884.

A WORD ABOUT "THE OREGONIAN."

Many readers of THE OREGONIAN have for a long time complained of the smallness of the type used in its columns. Use of this type has, however, been unavoidable, owing to the necessity of packing into the space at our disposal so great a mass of news. The only remedy was to get new and improved machinery so as to enable us to print a larger paper, which would permit the use of larger type without reducing the amount of reading matter. A year and a half ago the order for a new printing machine of the highest speed and with all modern improvements was given to the makers at New York; but, owing to the great demand for printing machinery and the large number of orders ahead of ours, completion of the machine has been delayed greatly. It has now, however, at last been received. It is a splendid machine; it comes from the establishment of R. Hoe & Co., who have long had the reputation of making the best and most complete printing machinery in the world, and their machinist is now on the way from New York to set it up and put it in operation. We expect to have it at work in about a month. THE OREGONIAN will then be enlarged to eight pages, the machine will print, cut and fold the paper, and will deliver twelve thousand copies an hour. Entirely new material will be used. Larger and clearer type will take the place of the small faces we have so long been compelled to make use of; and yet the larger size of the paper will enable us to print much more matter than now. We shall also be able to deliver the paper at a much earlier hour in the morning than hitherto, and this fact we are sure will be received with great favor. Often THE OREGONIAN has been complimented by the remark that it was "ahead of the country." This, if it has been true in the past, will be still more true in the future. THE OREGONIAN is now about to make the longest step forward it has ever made. While the proprietors realize that they are to some extent anticipating the future, yet they have undertaken with confidence those great improvements, believing that the growing business of the country will justify the heavy outlay attending them.

UNFAIRNESS ON BOTH SIDES.

The New York Herald refers to Mr. Blaine's speech to the grand army men at Old Orchard Beach as one of the humors of the campaign. Other newspapers opposed to Blaine have also attempted to impeach his patriotism because he did not go to war. And for the same reason many republicans have impeached the patriotism of Mr. Cleveland. Both of these efforts are wrong. Mr. Blaine probably felt, as hundreds of other able men felt, that he could render the country more service in civil life than in the army. Congress was as important a factor in the struggle against rebellion as the armies in the field. Without its support the armies would have been powerless. And such men as Blaine, Seward, Chase, Greeley, Edmunds, Conkling, Wilson, Winter Davis, Wade, Stevens, Sumner, Fessenden, Collamer, Morton and Sherman gave as undisputed proof of their patriotism by their action in congress as if they had served in the field. None of these men could have exchanged places with the men who occupied positions of the same relative prominence in the army without serious detriment to the service. Probably all of these men would have been glad to have made the exchange, if they had had a taste or talent for military life, for they were all ambitious men, and all of them aware of the fact that a military reputation is more captivating and more permanent than almost any other kind. As patriots they were bound to serve the country where they honestly felt, under all the circumstances, that they could do the most good; and it is to be presumed that they acted under this impulse. It is as unfair to criticise them for not going to war as it would be to attempt to impeach Gladstone's fame because he was not with Wolseley when the English army stormed the works at Tel-el-Kebir, or condemn William Pitt because he did not serve with Sir Ralph Abercrombie when the French were expelled from Egypt.

THE ARCTIC HORROR.

It is horrible, indeed, when men are reduced to the necessity of eating human flesh; but many of the papers are talking nonsense just now when they speak of the cannibalism forced upon the survivors of the Greely party. They talk as if it were a thing to be condemned in the starving men of the party, when in fact it is just what men in extremity have many times been forced to do, and moreover, just what in such dire circumstances is to be expected. Situated where food is unobtainable, men die one after another, and the survivors live upon their flesh. To cite an instance near home, this was what occurred in the camp of the Donner party, who were caught in the snows of the Sierras on their way across the continent to California in 1847. The horrors of that winter's camp are graphically described in Judge Thornton's "Oregon and California."

Lieut. Greely's conduct in ordering the man Henry to be shot is commented on in some quarters as if it were murder. In the circumstances it was wholly justifiable. Men talk as if stealing food in such a situation were to be judged with no more severity than stealing a loaf of bread from a bakery. Greely acted in an intelligent, just and courageous manner, and the court-martial he has asked cannot find otherwise. Sickening as this whole recital is, it will serve, however, a good purpose in deterring men from attempting these bootless and insane expeditions to the Arctic in future. It is good, therefore, that the enterprise of the press has discovered these details, horrible as they are.

COMFORT FOR FLY TIME.

Science is continually doing more and more for the comfort and satisfaction of man. Persons who know what it is to be annoyed by the unremitting attentions of a house fly during a quiet siesta in these summer days will be glad to learn that this enterprising and active insect is himself the victim of infinitesimal creatures who stand in about the same proportion to him that he does to the elephant, and who leave their eggs to be hatched out by the heat which the fly generates, after which the tiny grubs burrow in the flesh like trichinæ, and drive him to insanity and death. There is much comfort to be got out of this fact. You drive the same fly off your nose or off the bald place on your head a hundred times. Becoming impatient at his inability to satisfy himself even with a hundred square meals "hand running," you rise in your wrath and pursue him. But the fly has a pair of revolving eyes, set on delicately adjusted pivots. He doesn't have to wear glasses and he sees you first every time. Hence the place that knew him knows him not, just about half a second before your hand alights there. You can not catch a fly. But armed with this new scientific knowledge you brush him of for the hundredth time, and smiling a superior and scientific smile you say: "Aha, my fine fellow! I see by your frantic motions that you are a victim of the deadly amœba sarcoptes microscopulosis. In two hours you will be a dead fly and I shall be avenged. In this frame you fall asleep, and the fly wipes his legs on the window pane, and before you wake he has succumbed to his tormentors, fully realizing how it is himself.

AN IMPERIAL CONGRESS.

Ex-Secretary McCulloch says that the recent decision of the supreme court on the legal tender question throws a dark cloud over the financial outlook. While not undertaking to criticise that decision he cannot forbear to say that it fails to command the approval of the best legal minds of the country, because "it clothes congress with imperial power: the power which the framers of the constitution manifestly intended to withhold. It announces a new doctrine, that congress, instead of being limited to the exercise of enumerated powers, may do anything and everything which the constitution does not absolutely prohibit. Indeed, if by its authority to coin and borrow money, congress can authorize the issue of government notes as money, it is difficult to see what power does not constitutionally belong to it."

The theory of the decision in respect to the sovereignty of congress has excited a deeper solicitude than any other aspect of it. The court says virtually that the powers of congress are absolute, except as limited by distinct provisions of the constitution. It said that "congress, as the legislature of a sovereign nation, being expressly empowered by the constitution to lay taxes, etc., and the power to make the notes of the government a legal tender in the payment of private debts being one of the powers belonging to sovereignty in other civilized nations, and not expressly withheld from congress by the constitution, we are irresistibly impelled to the conclusion that the impressing upon the treasury notes of the United States the quality of being legal tender in the payment of private debts, is an appropriate means, conducive and plainly adapted to the execution of the undoubted powers of congress."

This theory was expressly condemned by Webster in his speech against Calhoun, in which he said: "The sovereignty of government is an idea belonging to the other side of the Atlantic. No such thing is known in North America. * * * None of these governments in America are sovereign in the European sense of the word, all being restrained by written constitutions." And General Garfield in a speech in congress in 1864 said: "It should be noticed that the word 'sovereignty' can not be fitly applied to any government in this country. It is not found in our constitution. It is a feudal word, born of the despotism of the middle ages, and was unknown even to imperial Rome. * * * Our own sovereignty is the whole people." Herbert Spencer, one of the keenest thinkers of the age, says that "the great political superstition of the past was the divine right of kings, and the great political superstition of the present is the divine right of parliament." It is this last superstition which the supreme court has formulated into a political axiom in respect to the congress of the United States.

Discussion of this question, however, as Mr. McCulloch says, "is of no avail." The law is now established that congress, in the exercise of its own discretion, may authorize the issue of legal tender notes at all times and to any amount. Such is the decision of the court, from whose decision there is no appeal, and it is not to be disguised, he says, "that it puts the national banking system in imminent jeopardy. Nothing can save it, if the redemption of the government bonds goes on, and this can only be prevented by a reduction of the government income to the amount required to cover its ordinary expenses." The decision throws additional responsibility upon congress; and it is well that the people should understand this fact clearly in order that they may hold their representatives to an intelligent and faithful discharge of them, and make them feel so far as possible that our real sovereignty is still the whole people.

THE EGYPTIAN PROBLEM.

The chief object of the Egyptian conference in which England and France were the principal parties was the relief of the Egyptian taxpayers, but neither party could agree upon a plan of administering the finances of that country, the French bondholders resisting the English proposal to lower the rate of interest on the Egyptian loan. The responsibility of managing that unhappy country's affairs therefore falls back upon England with added weight and perplexities. Mr. Gladstone as yet declines to commit the government by stating any definite policy beyond a just and moderate but firm government of Egypt. It is a heavy task, but unless unforeseen complications arise the government may be able to surmount the difficulties. Gordon is safe in Khartoum, the cool weather is approaching when it will be safe to undertake the expedition to his relief, the rebellion seems to be weakening, and there is yet time to retrieve the blunders of the campaign against the Mahdi. The Gladstone government has indeed displayed less wisdom in dealing with Egypt than in managing home affairs, but it would be hard to find safer hands in Europe in which to place the country's interests. Gladstone's policy has constantly been "relieve and retire." It is an unselfish programme which he has honestly tried to carry out. If it becomes evident that regulation is possible in no other way he may yet become convinced that the best way is to annex Egypt and remain there permanently. And it is by no means certain that that would not be best for both Egypt and England.

In the meantime England has gone to work with vigor on her Egyptian task. The first requisite toward the expedition to the relief of Gordon is a grant of money, and this the house of commons promptly made, voting a sum equal to a million and a half dollars. The simultaneous dispatch of a commissioner to Egypt to report on the condition of affairs and advise the government is another important step.

There are blessings in disguise. Of course it would not do to suspect that the reason why the Harpers are pitching into Mr. Blaine is that they did not obtain the publication of his book. Mr. Joseph W. Harper has written a letter a column long to deny it. Although that firm ran its periodicals twenty years ago on the principle of bringing grist to its wheel, there is new blood in its management now. In these circumstances, while Mr. Joseph Harper's letter showed that he wanted to secure the contract of publishing "Twenty Years in Congress" less than a year ago, he must be very happy now that he did not get it. Imagine the inconvenience it would have been to the great publishers to have one end of their establishment crying down Mr. Blaine as "a moral leper," while the other end was going down "to the sidewalk to assist the historian and statesman to unload his manuscript from the elevated railroad." Such strained relations between the editorial and business sections of the firm would have been awful to contemplate. Of course there is no hope that if Harper Bros. had published Blaine's book they could have induced their weekly to tolerate him; and in this view it must be regarded as a mercy to the publishing business that the contract went to Connecticut.

There is to be another presidential candidate in the field. The national executive committee of the American Political Alliance, in secret session at Boston last week, ordered all councils in the United States to make nominations for president and vice president of the United States. These nominations will be forwarded to the state councils, where they will be audited and will then be submitted to the national council, which will hold a convention with open doors, September 5, and announce the candidates.

It is reported that there will be a Butler electoral ticket in Oregon, and that a meeting of "greenbackers," "anti-monopolists" and "labor men" will be held at Salem within a few days to name the electoral ticket and give Butler a send-off. For the greenback member of the ticket (any other currency, however, silver, gold, silver certificates or gold notes would do as well) we suggest Hon. James Hendershott; for anti-monopolist member, Hon. Green B. Smith; for labor member, Hon. Henry Owen. Either Owen or Hendershott might, however, be the labor or greenback member, with equal propriety.

Some of the supporters of Mr. Blaine make a mistake in referring to the New York Sun as "the leading democratic journal of the country." Mr. Dana once explained with his usual clearness of statement that the Sun was not run in the interest of any party, but simply "for the amusement of its proprietor." It never occupied that position more unmistakably than it does now. Its only party is its subscribers.

John Bright says in a recent letter, speaking of Mr. Blaine's tariff argument, that the workingmen of England were never so prosperous under the protective system as now, and that England will never try protection again. He adds that France, Germany and Russia, where the system of protection is maintained, are suffering more severely than England from the general depression of business at the present time.

While Ferdinand Ward remains in the seclusion and security of Ludlow street jail, his victims continue to appear. The latest suits against him and Fish are instituted by carpenters and builders whom the precious pair owe many thousand dollars for work on their building enterprises. Swindling of this sort was even worse than that of the investors who were beguiled by usurious interest and government contracts.

Lieutenant T. W. Symons, United States Engineer and Rev. Dr. Atkinson of Oregon are authors of the article on Oregon in the seventeenth volume of the new edition of the "Britannica," just out.

The London News thinks "America's foreign relations will be safer in Mr. Cleveland's hands than in those of Mr. Blaine." Possibly the American people will not look at it from that standpoint.

THE PROHIBITION PARTY.

Its Course Opposed by a Prominent Temperance Advocate.

CHICAGO, August 8.—Francis Murphy, the great temperance advocate, in an interview in this city said: "I am opposed to the organization of a prohibition political party. I want to dissent from the third party movement. I think that the cause will be injured and its success will be retarded by the organization of a third party. I have never known, during my whole experience as a temperance man, where the organization of a third party has ever helped the cause of temperance, but it has always injured it. This is true in Maine and Massachusetts. The organization of a third party has injured the cause there and has been the cause of repealing the prohibition law. It was a third party that injured it in the state of New Hampshire. Every vote that is cast for a third party will strengthen the rum power. The victories that have been achieved for temperance have been won without the aid of a third party. This is true in Maine; it is true of Iowa, where the sumptuary laws that have been enthroned upon the statute book have been placed there without a third party, and it is true of Ohio. The magnificent vote given in favor of the constitutional amendment in the state of Ohio was free from third party influence. It was the voice of the people declaring themselves against the common enemy.

"I do not think any good can come to the cause of temperance by partisan legislation. But don't misunderstand me. I am in favor of bridging in and weighing down the trade by all the practical legislation you can get. If you cannot get all you want, take all you can get. Take the state of Illinois at the present time for an example, and seeing that there is not the slightest possibility of the prohibitionists being able to get what they want, practical common sense should suggest to them the desirability of not endangering what they have already got, and that the cause of temperance would be better advanced by a rigid enforcement of a high-license law than by taking a course which if successful in defeating the party that secured that legislation, would undoubtedly cause its repeal. I am in favor of all would-be reformers attending the caucuses of their party and seeing that good men are put on the ticket there, and if they cannot get just the men they want or men that they think are the best, why let them take the best they can get and make the most possible out of that. I am in favor of their going to the primaries and doing their duty there. Politicians are not such bad men as they are sometimes represented. If you would reform the people you must work from within and not from the outside."

"You think, then, from the temperance standpoint, that the organization of a prohibition political party is a foolish move?"

"I do. More than that, I think it not only that, but the worst of evils to strengthen the hearts and hands of the enemy. I am in favor of a temperance ticket when the whisky men organize a whisky ticket, but not until then. I cannot understand how the friends of temperance can go to work and organize a third party at this time. The public men who represent the great parties have all pronounced in favor of temperance. The public press is pronounced in favor of it. On every opportunity that is afforded them they have steadily advanced in increasing the responsibilities of the liquor traffic by hedging it about. The license law now upon the statute book, if it were enforced, could be made practically prohibitory. If the temperance people would go to work and enforce the law upon the statute book, one-third of the saloons now in this state would be virtually closed. And if we have not public sentiment enough to enforce the laws upon the statute book how in the name of common sense can we attempt prohibition?"

WHAT SOME PAPERS SAY.

Cincinnati Enquirer: At last accounts St. John was looking for some one to take a lemonade with.

Indianapolis Journal: About 4,500,000 American citizens will go on Blaine's presidential bonds. The security will be ample.

New York Truth: The best thing Governor Cleveland can do is to get Mr. Samuel J. Tilden write his letter of acceptance. But, oh! when Ben Butler puts his pen to paper.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The hope of democracy is to get into power. Its desire to get into power means nothing more nor less than a longing to distribute the spoils among the venal horde that have waited for them long and impatiently.

Cincinnati Commercial: The burning question among democrats now is, whether to sacrifice Cleveland and save the party or hold on to Cleveland and sacrifice the party. That issue will soon take precedence of the tariff question.

Philadelphia Press: Now that Keifer is forever retired, the crying lack in politics appears to be a perfectly developed case of awful example, such as was ever ready at hand so long as the ex speaker could be treated as a living issue.

Boston Herald: We are desirous of seeing General Butler run, because we want to see how much of a following he can have. Besides, it will do no harm to break ground for a general smashing of the old parties, which no longer represent anything.

Cleveland Catholic Universe: The press of the country should not cease from agitating the arraignment of Governor Cleveland's moral character until he resigns or is withdrawn from the democratic presidential nomination or puts himself on his honest defense before the country.

New York Sun: There may be a great deal of poetry and imagination in Butler's canvass, but there will be no false pretense about it. Neither will there be any scandals affecting the personal character of the candidate. We are convinced that he means to run and that both Cleveland and Blaine will be put to their trumps by him.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: If the facts in the Cleveland scandal are unfit for public discussion, it is the duty of the democrats to change their candidate as soon as possible. No man is fit to be voted for as president whose private life is not fit for discussion. Even Mr. George William Curtis will agree to this as a fundamental axiom, so to speak.

A Religious Journal's Views.

New York Evangelist.

Even his enemies are forced to concede his great ability and therefore direct their attacks against his character. We are ignorant of the imputations upon his integrity to which some whom we hold in high respect attach a great importance. Nor would we put aside such charges lightly, as unworthy of attention. We cannot be too sensitive to the character of our public men and would not belittle anything of serious import. But really when a man has been so conspicuous for a quarter of a century, a mark for all eyes and all tongues, and the only thing—or the chief thing—that can be brought against him is a sentence or two picked out of private letters written fifteen years ago, it does seem as if his assailants were hard pressed for material. If all the private correspondence of our public men were thus scrutinized by sharp and unfriendly eyes, how many righteous men would there be left in our American Israel?

But we do not care to argue this matter, because we have a shorter way to satisfy ourselves. Our opinion of Mr. Blaine may be worth nothing, nor the opinion of those who have met him only in the society of Washington. But surely there was one man who ought to have known him through and through—who was with him for twenty years in congress, at the very time that all these charges were investigated, and who thought so little of them that they did not impair his respect or his confidence in the slightest degree. On the contrary, when this man, General Garfield, was elected president of the United States he chose Mr. Blaine as his chief and faithful adviser. He called him to the first place in his cabinet, thus giving the highest possible proof of his unshaken trust. If General Garfield had any doubt of his integrity he was guilty of a great wrong to his country in placing him in a position of such responsibility. His action speaks louder than words. He did not distrust Mr. Blaine. He had not only admiration for his splendid abilities but the warmest personal regard for the man. Those who have seen them together could not help seeing that the tie which bound them to each other was not an ordinary friendship, but a strong personal attachment, which implied an absolute mutual trust and confidence. Could any testimony be stronger? This single fact is enough to answer a thousand sneers and suspicions. To all the attacks upon Mr. Blaine his friends have one short but sufficient answer—"What was good enough for President Garfield is good enough for us."

Published for Money.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Harpers seem to be very much worried by the publication of their letter to a friend of Mr. Blaine's urging the recipient to use his influence to secure for their house the publication of Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress." They should not mind such a trifle as that. Another and much weightier matter is a school history of the United States bearing the imprint of Harper Brothers, now extensively used at the South. In that text book we are informed the rankest secessionism and most bitter, mendacious and pernicious villification of the Union cause abounds. If there is any explanation of this incontestable fact let us have it.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.
CORNER FOURTH AND A STREETS,
PORTLAND, OR., Aug. 4th, 1884.
I hereby acknowledge that A. S. Moore, of Vancouver Mills, Vancouver, W. T., sold me ten barrels of flour which he sent to me in "Capitol" mills and "Salem" mills sacks. Some of it I have sold which has been returned to me.
Signed, M. WERTHEIMER.
Referring to the above letter, and other similar cases which have come to our notice, showing that A. S. Moore, of Vancouver, W. T., has been putting his flour into our sacks and so selling the same, with fraudulent intent, and to our injury, we hereby warn the public and the trade generally to see that they get our respective brands of flour from [illegible] agents, who have been appointed to prosecute [illegible]
SALEM FLOURING MILLS CO.,
Wm. [illegible], Agent.
CITY OF SALEM [illegible],
[illegible], Agent.

AN ANSWER.
ON THE REQUEST OF A. S. MOORE, IN ORder to reply to a certain notice published in the Oregonian, I will respectfully say to the public that I did not buy the said ten barrels of flour of Mr. Moore as Capitol Mill flour, but as Vancouver Mill flour, in second-handed sacks; nor have I sold it as Capitol Mill flour. Mr. Moore told me at the time I bought the flour of him, that it was Vancouver City Mill flour. I do not consider that Mr. Moore in any way intended to infringe upon the rights of the Capitol Mill Co. or to deceive me or the public. M. WERTHEIMER.
Portland, Or., August 11, 1884.
In answer to the card published in the Oregonian by the agents of the Salem Flouring Mills Co. and the City of Salem Co., I have only to say that as a matter of economy I have for years bought and used second-hand flour sacks of all brands, but in selling flour placed in such sacks I have always notified purchasers that the flour was Vancouver City Mills flour in second-hand sacks. A. S. MOORE,
Manager Vancouver Mill Co.

CITY LETTERS.—Some time since a letter box was placed on the Ash street dock by the post-office authorities for the benefit of merchants especially and for the general public, for whose convenience another box is placed near by on Front street. On the box which is on the dock is plainly marked "Only letters for Astoria, Tacoma or the Sound to be placed therein," the box being intended for the accommodation of business men who can not get letters written late at night thereto. The mail carrier for the Astoria, Tacoma and eastern routes empties the box in the morning before the boats leave and takes out the letters for their respective places. Notwithstanding that plainly printed notice posted on the box, [illegible] A. M. that [illegible] are supposed to be able to read, the box is constantly filled with city letters, which of course are not taken out by the mail carrier, [illegible] and are left there from day to day. The postal authorities wish to call the attention of the public to this matter once more, and if they persist in passing the box on Front street and putting their letters in the box not intended for them, the box will have to be removed.

FOR THE POOR INDIAN.—R. V. Belt, representing the department of the interior in San Francisco, has just opened thirty seven bids from local dealers for furnishing supplies for Indians on reservations. The bids called for were for groceries, [illegible] lamps, furniture and woodenware and [illegible] leather, agricultural implements, [illegible] paints, brass and iron kettles, tin, [illegible] stoves, pipe, hollow ware, hardware, [illegible] etc. Among the articles of food are bacon, [illegible] beans, hominy, oatmeal, tea and coffee, and [illegible] of soap to keep Lo clean, 14 [illegible] pounds [illegible] tobacco, while 512 boxes of shoe blacking will be purchased for his boots. Then there are eight-day clocks, clothespins, washboards, sewing machines, cups and saucers, and other domestic utensils to be bought.

FRESH FRUIT.—The first of the cars especially for carrying fruit over the Northern Pacific arrived on Thursday and was being loaded yesterday. It is built with double walls [illegible] of wire cloth at each end to allow of ventilation of air. The bottom is arranged so as to allow the air to pass under the boxes [illegible] so as to allow the air to circulate [illegible]. The car is furnished with air brakes [illegible] and all the necessary improvements to [illegible] being attached to passenger trains. More [illegible] of the same kind will be provided and it is [illegible] considerable portion of our immense [illegible] will be marketed in Montana and further [illegible]

AN ELECTRIC LIGHT MAST.—Workmen [illegible] on South Third street, near Lincoln, [illegible] for erecting a mast for an electric light. [illegible] part of the mast is a handsome stick 102 [illegible] length and the topmast is 72 feet in length [illegible] will be set 12 feet in the ground and [illegible] [illegible] 50 feet which will make the mast 151 [illegible] above the ground. It will be placed a [illegible] distance south of the junction of Third and [illegible] streets, so that it will be in a line with [illegible] Third street. It will be put up in a [illegible] and our citizens will be able to form some [illegible] of the system of lighting a city by means of [illegible] lights on masts.

[illegible] A CADET.—Mr. Weeks, Oregon [illegible] naval school at Annapolis, has resigned, [illegible] having been appointed a lieutenant in [illegible] The secretary of the navy has therefore [illegible] Hon. M. C. George to name some young [illegible] fill the vacancy. The candidate must present [illegible] at the naval academy not later than September [illegible] and must be between 14 and 18 years of age, [illegible] physically sound, well formed and robust, and [illegible] proficient in reading, writing, spelling, [illegible] geography, English grammar, history [illegible] Congressman George is ready to receive [illegible]

[illegible] ESCAPE.—As a stranger was crossing Pine [illegible] First yesterday afternoon leading a child, [illegible] a boy driving an express wagon turned [illegible] at a rapid rate, the horse striking the [illegible] with his knees, knocking it down, bruising it [illegible] badly but fortunately not fatally. The stranger [illegible] the horse a violent blow on the nose, throwing [illegible] on his haunches. A crowd gathered around [illegible] the child was killed, and in the confusion [illegible] drove off and the stranger picked up [illegible] and followed suit. Names could not be [illegible]

[illegible] FOR BEARS.—Thomas Strong, D. P. [illegible], Hands, Ben Deady and Robert Catlin, who [illegible] a hunting expedition near Cathlamet a few [illegible] ago, succeeded in killing two bears. They say [illegible] fall of 'em in that vicinity and they [illegible] heard a [illegible] all hours of the day and night through [illegible] in the brush. This statement is not intended [illegible] cause a rush of the entire population of [illegible] to that locality, but if anybody has lost any [illegible] will stand a better show for finding them [illegible] than in some other places where the bears are [illegible] plentiful.

AN OPPORTUNITY.—Minneapolis manufacturers pay $32 a thousand for lumber, make it into [illegible] sash, and ship them as far west as Spokane. "Still," a prominent business man to an Oregonian reporter, "Portland manufacturers with [illegible] lumber at $8 to $10 could make sash and [illegible] sell them in Minneapolis at a profit, to say [illegible] of the trade they could get in Montana. The [illegible] manufacturers here are folding their arms and let [illegible] everybody else reach out for business that properly belongs here."

CHARGE OF ROBBERY.—Edward Sheridan, Chris [illegible] and William Dugan were arraigned in the [illegible] court yesterday, charged with stealing $71 in [illegible] from Pat Daley. The men are all employed at [illegible] hotel as waiters and cooks. According to Daley's story he was intoxicated and the [illegible] carried him to a room and put him to [illegible] When he awoke his money was gone and [illegible] pointing toward his companions they were [illegible] The accused will have an examination this [illegible]

A CONFLAGRATION.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the employes in Mooney & Valentine's [illegible] discovered a fire that was rapidly gaining headway among a lot of old rubbish in the rear [illegible] establishment. Policeman Hamilton discovered [illegible] about the same time and immediately [illegible] the hose company on C street. Meanwhile [illegible] had formed a bucket brigade and passed [illegible] speedily and used it so effectually that by [illegible] the company had its hose laid the flames [illegible] under control.

THE CRICKET MATCH.

The Portland Club Lead the Victorians at the First Inning 127 to 35

The first of the series of matches between Victoria and Portland was announced to begin at 11 o'clock yesterday, but for some unexplained cause it was after 12 before the respective captains tossed for choice of innings and Captain Bennett of Victoria winning the toss elected to go to the bat. P. A. E. Irving and F. G. Walker commenced the batting to the bowling of C. A. Absolom at the upper and J. Bourne Jr. at the lower end. The former was quickly disposed of, falling a victim to a pacer of Absolom's and in fact the only stand made for Victoria was by Bennett, who succeeded in putting together 9, the top score. As will be seen by the average, Bourne took 5 wickets for 22 runs and Absalom 4 for 11, both excellent averages. The innings terminated at 1:35 for 35 runs, the same last total ever made by a Victoria first eleven. After an adjournment of 40 minutes for luncheon the home club sent Molson and Dixon to face the bowling of Pooley and Eberts, the latter a very fast and straight round arm bowler. His second ball disposed of Dixon. Molson was then joined by Thompson, and ere the latter was retired fourteen runs had been secured. C. A. Absolom then joined Molson, and the peculiarly defensive style of the latter with Absolom's free hitting completely demoralized the bowling. Runs came freely and caused a change of bowling, Brealey relieving Pooley. Still the score increased until Eberts managed to get one past Molson's bat, 3 for 58. Rome followed to score and Readman then joined Absolom, but Brealey's next ball cleanly bowled the latter, whose 29 was beautifully earned. Kimross came next and contributed a zero, he too fell a victim to Eberts. Arthurs succeeded him and runs were got quickly until a beautiful catch at slip by Snowden retired the latter. Warren then joined Readman and another stand was made and Pooley [illegible] Brealey at the lower end and soon [illegible] with a beautiful ball [illegible] Readman's innings [illegible] was wellnigh a fruitless one, Owen and Bourne failed to score and the innings terminated at 4:45 for 127 or 92 to the good.

With the uphill task before them, Victoria commenced at 5:15 their second innings, and at 6 o'clock when time was called had succeeded in getting together 33 for the loss of four wickets.

The match will be resumed at 12 o'clock to-day and during the afternoon the North western band will be in attendance. The Portland club deserve credit for the handsome accommodations provided for visitors. Carriages can drive on the ground from the rear of Beck's stables.

We append the score of the first innings:

FORESTS FOR IRELAND

Mr. Howitz's Plan for Furnishing the Island with Timber

[illegible] Monthly

At the suggestion of Dr. [illegible] member of parliament for Dublin, Mr. D. Howitz, forest conservator for Denmark, has made an examination of the resources and need of Ireland for forest cultivation. [illegible] observations [illegible] parliamentary report [illegible] illustrates the evils consequent on the reckless denudation of the land of its forests. He has found that swamps and morasses are created in Ireland from the want of trees to drink up the superfluous moisture. Irish rivers in summer [illegible] the mountain tops to arrest and retain the autumn and spring rains. In summer there is a dearth of water because the trees are gone which would have served each as a reservoir. Irish agriculture by its system of [illegible] which Mr. Howitz [illegible] has acted as if water were poison instead of nutriment. In the past by felling the mountain woods and in the present by planting no successors it has done worse by tapping the supply at its source. Irish fruitfulness is gradually being drained and washed away into the lakes and seas, and no preparation has been made to replenish it.

Fortunately, however, the island presents the special [illegible] for rendering forestry easy and beneficial. Five millions of its 20,000,000 acres are waste, and might be planted with a [illegible] [illegible] and these lands will grow [illegible] instead of the [illegible] and cheaper kinds. The list of available trees includes thirty-six conifers, thirty eight [illegible] and hard wood species, and eight sorts of [illegible]. Mr. Howitz has drawn up from personal inspection a scheme for planting a hundred thousand acres every year for the next [illegible] years. By the end of that time [illegible] his estimate will come to full productive capacity, besides having already given incidental returns from brushwood and saplings. The cost per acre at the end of thirty years will have been at the highest £20 or $100, while the lowest annual profits are computed at present prices at £1 or $5 per acre, and as the demand for timber is all the time rising and the area of supply narrowing they are likely to be higher. The suggestions contained in Mr. Howitz's report are timely for those who are striving to arrest and remedy the evils resulting from the depredation of the timber growth in many sections of our own country.

"Give the Horse His Head."

A few weeks ago two horses were drawing each a load of [illegible] up a rising ground in the suburbs of our city. The hinder horse had the bearing rein drawn tightly on his neck and the animal was [illegible] his head forwards and by throwing his weight into the collar was dragging his load steadily and without undue strain on his muscles and joints. The foremost horse, with his [illegible] was bracing up with a tight bearing rein, his head cramped and raised, his mouth fretted and every joint and muscle straining and strained at each step he took. The two men were talking to each other and the carter of the hinder horse was heard to say: "Bill, go and give thy horse his head; he'll pull that load easier." Bill went and slackened the bearing rein. "Give him more," said the other. Bill went and gave him all he wanted. The horse immediately did his work in a way which conveyed the relief he felt as clearly as if he had said "There, thank you, I'm all right now." We would commend to every one who has charge of a draught horse when he is at work the advice that Bill received and followed: "Bill, give thy horse his head; he'll pull that load easier."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory.

Seattle exchange: The fund for the completion of the Cedar Green river coal road has been closed and Mr. Howard left for Portland this afternoon, where he will complete arrangements enabling the commencement of work one week from to-day. This in itself will infuse new life into business and by the time coal begins to arrive there will be a marked improvement in local business.

Western Oregon

The annual catalogue of the state normal school at Monmouth has been received. It shows the condition of the school at the end of the school year and its past year's progress. Immediately after the state normal school was located by the legislative assembly in 188[illegible], it organized under the provisions of the law. The extent to which the necessity for such a school in the state was felt is seen by the fact that students from different parts of the state at once commenced at once to avail themselves of the advantages of normal training. During the first year 104 students were enrolled. The kind of work done by the school soon became known, caused the enrollment to be increased during the second year to more than double the number of last year. The rolls show [illegible] students in attendance during the year just closed. The influence the normal is already exerting may be judged from the fact that the students this year are from sixty of the twenty-five counties of the state. The enthusiasm and influence for normal work and normal teaching will thus be seen to be felt already in about two thirds of the state, and far beyond the limits of the state through students from other places.

The Widow Halpin

Special to St. Paul Pioneer Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 1[illegible].—The widow Halpin has arrived in New York and has been captured by the agent of the state republican committee here. The democratic national committee thought they had her under control, but they were not vigilant enough, and she has escaped them. She arrived here last evening and is now in a secure place. It is not now proposed to use the widow's evidence in any way unless Grover Cleveland should attempt to deny the charges. Mrs. Halpin has made a complete statement of the whole story. You may be certain that the promised defense of Cleveland will never be read. Its appearance alone depended upon the silencing of the widow Halpin.

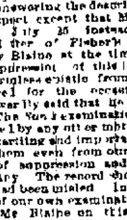
The Sun Vindicating Blaine

New York Special: The Sun continues its vindication of Mr. Blaine from the charge of suppressing some of the Mulligan letters. This takes the form of a controversy with the Times. The Sun says:

Let the Times stand while we braid a lash out of facts that ought to sting its back. In a leading article of a column and a half on Monday of last week the Times announced that it had made an examination of the record which verified in the most startling manner the story that Mr. Blaine had suppressed the letters contained in the package which he took from Mulligan. The Times' startling discovery was this: Four of the documents called for by the memorandum it failed to find in the congressional record and by what it considered a "most singular coincidence" these letters not mentioned in the memorandum were real by Blaine. Can it be, demanded the Times, that the splendid audacious statesman substituted some harmless letters from his own portfolio or manufactured for the occasion the four letters on Mulligan's list that not read? The only basis of the Times' startling discovery was the phenomenal stupidity with which its examination of the record was conducted in the first place. Two of the four documents which it had failed to find were in fact printed on the page which it had been examining. Half of its case was swept away by the evidence of its own unequaled heedlessness. A third letter was there too answering the description of the schedule in every respect except that Mulligan had indexed it as of July 25 instead of July 2. The fourth, a letter of Fisher's to Blaine, was not produced by Blaine at the time. Instead of covering the suppression of this letter by the substitution of a harmless epistle from his own portfolio or manufactured for the occasion he simply and straightforwardly said that he did not find it in the package. The Sun's examination of the record was not prompted by any other motive than the habit of verifying startling and important discoveries before accepting them, even from our neighbor the Times. The care of suppression and substitution did not stand scrutiny. The record showed plainly just how the Times had been misled. Instead of withholding the result of our own examination because it was favorable to Mr. Blaine on this special point of inquiry, we thought it right to give him the benefit of the facts.



ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
QUALITY NOT QUANTITY. PURITY. On Every Bottle. Trade Mark.
THE BEST TONIC.
PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND IT

This medicine, combining Iron with pure vegetable tonics, quickly and completely Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weakness, Impure Blood, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, and Neuralgia.

It is an unfailing remedy for Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver.

It is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who lead sedentary lives.

It does not injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other Iron medicines do.

It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, aids the assimilation of food, relieves Heartburn and Belching, and strengthens the muscles and nerves.

For Intermittent Fevers, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, &c., it has no equal.

The genuine has above trade mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other.

Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

IN LONGHAND.

W. G. Crilly, Portland, Or.—DEAR SIR: In response to your request, I can say that I cheerfully subscribe to the statement that, under your instructions, I, as well as others in the same class, fully mastered the principles of Ben. Pitman's System of Phonetic Shorthand writing in fifteen lessons, establishing a good and sufficient foundation upon which to build by practice and study the thorough acquirement of the art of Phonetic reporting. Yours, etc. W. H. LEEDS.

Correspondence solicited and information cheerfully given. Send 50 cents for first lesson, beautifully lithographed, and stamps for Circular.

The Course of the Markets and Monthly Movement.

RATES OF FREIGHT, PRICES FOR WHEAT AND FLOUR

Total Export of 204,248 Short Tons Wheat—A Fleet of Ninety Vessels—Exports Foreign and Domestic

The cereal season closing with us at the end of July has been one of new experience to shippers millers and growers. As our columns have from time to time reviewed the situation and commented at length upon the causes that led up to it we shall not at this time go into minute details. The certainty of a light valley crop and a large one in the eastern section or altogether one quite up to the average apparently furnished ground for the local proceedings. But California was the state that wrought all the ruin that could be done dealings. Shippers in the expectancy of immense crops secured in March April and May all the tonnage possible at from 45s to 65s. Speculators or those who never 'gambled' in wheat caught the fever and secured many a ship expecting to be able to recharter at a fine profit. The tempting bait of a sharp advance in freights was one that few could resist. It had occurred in previous years under similar conditions that were expected to rule in 1884 and few were sufficiently wise or chary enough to keep from taking a hand in the affair. Later weather was mixed but not until harvest was well under way were estimates reduced. The fancy prices paid tonnage attracted almost every idle ship that could get to this coast in any time. With an unwelcome awakening, but it was too late to save our shippers and speculators or disengaged tonnage. Then the British markets went tumbling downward until prices, such as had not been seen in years were cabled across. Nor has it since showed any particular recovery. The farmer got a good price for his wheat, far better than he could have received in the absence of future chartering and he alone appears to have been the gainer through the losses of others. True tonnage did well but so much of it especially American had to take cheap rates that the net gain was reduced. Such was Oregon's experience as her operators closely followed California's. Aside from their eagerness to do so they found it impossible to get vessels without chartering ahead and while their foresight was as much at fault their condition was a secondary one. Iron was freely taken up in the spring and early summer months at 60 and 65s. In one instance 65s 3d being paid. Wood held off and did worse in the end for owners allowed themselves to be carried away with the idea that their bottoms would be in great demand. The fact of their afterwards accepting 32s 6d out of this river months after 57s 6d had been offered them revealed the weakness of their position. Aside from the charters made by regular shippers firms abroad and speculators took up vessels to arrive here, expecting to turn them over at an advance. One taken at 66s 3d was rechartered at 42s 6d and others did little better. There has been no estimate of losses calculated but it is questioned if a single shipper can be named who made a profit while the losses of others were expressed in five to six figures. The year was also one of losses to millers especially those who could not place their entire product at home. Owing to the number of vessels in the year's fleet taken at private terms and the difficulty in obtaining exact rates no freight money will be calculated. Below is submitted a review of the year by months and a complete record of exports of wheat and flour, as well as minor information of value

AUGUST

With the coming of the first month of the new cereal season there was some small business doing in old wheat for milling and the completion of two mixed cargoes of flour and salmon. The summer had given us no rain but a dense smoke hung over and protected the grain fields so that the yield throughout the valley exceeded the most sanguine hopes. The eastern section had an early and plenteous harvest. Freights were quoted at 65s for iron for orders wheat nominally $1 60 for Walla Walla and $1 57½ for valley with little doing here. Shippers early entered into free buying in the eastern section and had secured considerable before end. We had 26 685 tons registered in the river and 60 404 on the way. Wheat advanced in the month under competition but fell off, closing at about opening prices. There had been brisk buying of Walla Walla which continued when foreign markets began drooping shippers being desirous of filling prospective needs. Flour ruled steady at $4 75 in the local market. The Grisedale went on berth for Liverpool and Geo S Homer for New York. Freights closed with a weak tone.

SEPTEMBER

The foreign markets continued disappointing and freights weakened in the month. The decline abroad was shouldered by ships, wheat ruling firm with advances paid in the interior to fill urgent needs. On the 8th valley brought $1 55@1 52½ readily, closing at $1 50 for Walla Walla and $1 57½ for valley. A large business continued to be done in the eastern section, not alone by shippers and millers. On the 12th the George Bewley and Chasca, both iron secured 60s and 61s 3d and later the Cheesbrough wood 5?s 6d. The Scottish Tar iron was taken private, on the 18th. On the 11th Portland held grand jubilee over the completion of the Northern Pacific.

OCTOBER.

Millers exceeded $1 57½ for valley wheat and the local market gathered strength. At the middle of the month $1 60 was freely paid. Toward the close millers again raised their figures steadily so valley closed at $1 65 and shippers were forced to pay that. In the eastern section shippers withdrew for a time on account of the upward turn. The foreign market continued to weaken all month. California crop estimates were called into question and the freight market touched a low point. Flour quoted at $5. On the 1st the Grasmere wood began loading on owners account and the Reaper, wood secured 52s 6d. The Heela was taken to load at Tacoma. On the 6th the St Lucie, wood, accepted less than 50s. On the 23d the Glan Ferguson iron, took 44s for Liverpool. The Balaklava and Caitloch iron afterward accepted about 40s 3d for orders

NOVEMBER

Wheat opened with a fair business doing at the closing prices for October, but slowly gathered local strength and in a week sold up to $1 70 for valley and $1 65 Walla Walla. Advices were also a trifle more cheering, but free buying was the main factor in the advance. The second week was a dull one and operators began lowering bids but about the 15th wheat took a jump and $1 66½ and $1 72½ were quoted as extremes for valley and Walla Walla. This was soon exceeded millers stepping to the front and notwithstanding lower advices the market closed rather firm with $1 67½ and $1 7?½ freely paid. Freights ruled weak, although a good spot business was done in the month. The Ice King wood secured a salmon freight. On the 6th the Imperial wood secured 40s for continent. Rowland Hill wood 37s 6d U K. Bolivia steel 45s U K. Oberon composite, rechartered at 41s 3d. Harry Bailey wood 37s 6d. City of Madrid iron private. Glenfiffer iron 42s 6d and Star of Erin and bark Oberon private. Flour advanced to $5 25 and then to $5 50. The month was an active one for the wheat market

DECEMBER.

Foreign advices came through lower and the month saw the collapse of the freight market at San Francisco soft wood being rechartered at 19s direct. Millers here overbid shippers for wheat paying up to $1 80. Shippers toward the close gained the mastery and millers reduced limits to $1 71½ $1 70 being paid for Walla Walla. Spot freight transactions included the Ladstock private. Girvan handy iron 42s 6d, Angerona iron about 40s, and Sovereign of the Seas, wood, 32s 6d. Flour ruled steady all month. The month saw the most stirring times among exporters, they being compelled to fill up a number of high priced ships. Losses had continually been piled up, but our shippers tided over in good shape

JANUARY

Freights opened quiet, no grain business being done until the 11th when the Beemah iron got 41s 3d and the Indiana and Sea King wood 32s 6d for orders. The Carrie Winslow had taken a lumber freight to Montevideo. Wheat opened dull and weak, shippers holding back but millers paid up to $1 75. Shippers named $1 6? for Walla Walla and a cargo of valley sold at $1 80 f o b. On the 10th flour fell off to $5 25 and wheat weakened closing at $1 70 for valley shipping and about $1 60 for Walla Walla. Millers paid an advance. Walla Walla ex woolen ship October and December sold at 41s and 41s 3d. The rates taken by the Indiana and Sea King were as low as ever accepted out of this port and the lowest actually paid wood

FEBRUARY

The wheat market opened with small trading at $1 67½@1 70 for valley and $1 60 for Walla Walla soon declining and in five days touching $1 60@1 62½. Millers all reduced limits and shippers drew out of the market notwithstanding offerings were free. On the 9th valley sold in the interior on basis of $1 59 here. The market steadily declined closing weak at $1 50@1 52½ for valley with holders of Walla Walla demanding about the same figures. In the month the English market weakened and cargoes sold lower. Walla Walla December loading wood selling at 40s 6d. Freights ruled quiet and weak until near the close when owners advanced their pretensions. The Br iron bark Janet McNeil on the 6th got 42s 6d for flour direct. Flour ruled weak without declining all month. The weather was mild for the time of year opening cold and foggy then light rains to snow on the 4th and cold and clear to 15th. On the morning of the 16th two inches of snow fell. A few days brought rain and warmer weather which last continued to the close

MARCH

This month opened with clear weather snow and rain falling on the 9th. The rest of the month saw very fair weather although occasional showers fell. The Tillie E. Starbuck iron accepted about 40 [illegible] On the 11th the Mergum wood and on the 19th the Highland Light wood secured at [illegible] orders. The River Indus iron [illegible] 40s 6d. Wheat ruled slow with little doing [illegible] shippers offered $1 50 for valley and Walla Walla. Found no takers at $1 50 f o b. Millers did a trifle better. At the middle of the month quotations were $1 52½ valley and $1 42@1 45 Walla Walla. To fill needs at the close $1 55 was paid for valley but the market was weak as were the selling markets. Flour ruled weak without the quotation being lowered

APRIL.

The City of Carlisle iron, began loading on owners account. Iron was quoted at 42s 6d for orders. On the 5th and 12th the C B Southard and S R Mead wood accepted 39s for orders. The Eskdale went on berth. At the close the Charles Cotesworth iron accepted 43s 6d direct. The month was a dull one in all particulars. Flour dropped to $4 75. Wheat opened weak shippers lowering limits to $1 50 with millers paying a fraction more. On the 2?th $1 47½ was bid but $1 55 was asked. At the end valley sold at $1 48 as an extreme. Walla Walla in no business. The weather was clear for ten days then rainy for a week and mixed to the close

MAY

The month saw a small business in grain holders became firmer in their pretentions the error of ?reports of foreign markets being the cause. Buyers kept 2½@5c below them but paid up occasionally. This did not last long for on the 22d valley sold at $1 45 and Walla Walla $1 30 to shippers. The Aberystwith Castle iron early took a direct freight presumably at 42s 6d the Italia steel soon accepting similar business. At the close the Trthoon iron was taken at about 45s for orders. At first the weather was cloudy to showery then nine days of clear one day rain three days clear three days showery and closing clear

JUNE

Wheat opened dull Walla Walla soon selling down to about $1 30. On the 13th valley was quoted at $1 40@1 42 and Walla Walla $1 30@1 32½. It closed weak at these prices for shipping millers doing a fraction better. Flour continued at $4 75 for standard brands. On the 4th the Jorsalfarer, wood secured 42s 6d for orders. The room for business in freights was limited shippers holding aloof from new business. No rain fell until the 15th when a light shower was had also one on the 19th 24th and 28th

JULY

Wheat attracted little interest by reason of the small demand for it millers only were tame buyers probable purchasers. Opening at about $1 40@1 42½ for valley and with Walla Walla worth not over $1 30 according to the shippers ideas the market gradually weakened and near the close millers bought valley at $1 35 and $1 32½ closing at about the last figure. The month's movement was almost nothing the one vessel sailing having been long on berth. Another took in 300 tons but sails in August. Freights were quiet with no disposition to do any thing until the 23d and 24th, when the wooden vessels Belle of Oregon and Alameda were taken for wheat flour and salmon to load mainly with salmon at 45s 6d and 43s direct. On the 7th the M [illegible] closed a lumber charter to Panama and on the 29th the Navesink one to Montevideo. Flour sold steadily at $4 75 for standards all month. The first of the month witnessed fair weather showers falling on the 2d 6th 16th to 20th 25th and 26th. These were generally light but those of the 16th to 20th were hard at times and raised considerable fear of damaged crops. They extended the length of the valley but were hurtful only to cut hay. One field of wheat was cut as early as the 1st but little in the way of harvest was done until near the close and the month sent in no round samples of new. The eastern section had light rains and its harvest is delayed nearly a month through this and other reasons. From time to time we have written of the splendid crop returns and at the close of the old and the commencement of the new year can only say that valley cereal crops never were better the yield being beyond an average and the quality excellent. The eastern section will harvest less than last, yet will have an average outturn. As to the probable exportable surplus one hesitates to even make a guess remembering that it is very likely to be too high. Yet it would seem that the northwest should send away over 200 000 tons and probably 225 000. Other cereal crops are doing equally well oats being abundant and promising to rule low. In freight futures business has been done at 52s 6d for iron and 50s for soft wood the latter being closed some time ago. At this time there is no available tonnage for grain in the river with only a small amount soon due. Compared with last year the amount in sight is about one third less. Wheat values promise to rule low $1 15 being named for Walla Walla and $1 25 for valley to shippers. Millers are expected to go beyond this in a small way

DISASTERS AND PASSAGES

The most important disasters and losses to shipping good passages long passages etc for the year will appear below

STEAMERS

Columbia Sept 3 in going down river collided with Br bark Aberlemno knocking small hole in bow above water line

The largest valley wheat receipts are from Linn Marion Lane and Yamhill counties. Oats are well distributed some coming from Puget Sound but these are inferior to those of our own state. Marion county is the largest flour grinding county, several mills being located at Salem and Turner. Clackamas comes next having three mills at Oregon City. Mill stuff comes largely from these mills. Wool [illegible] from Washington. Wheat is mostly from east of the mountains from eastern Washington and from the Umpqua valley in southern Oregon. Flaxseed comes from northern Idaho and points near thereto. All the lime received is from the islands of Puget Sound. Hops are mostly from counties bordering on Puget Sound although some comes from Yakima county and more from the middle valley counties

The arrivals of wheat and flour reduced to wheat foot up a total equal to 211 689 short tons wheat affects seriously all the digestive and assimilative organs, including the Kidneys. When these organs are so affected, they fail to extract from the blood the uric acid, which, carried through the circulation, causes Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

The functions of the Liver are also affected by costiveness, causing Bilious Disorders.

Among the warning symptoms of Biliousness are Nausea, Dizziness, Headache, Weakness, Fever, Dimness of Vision, Yellowness of Skin, Pains in the Side, Back and Shoulders, Foul Mouth, Furred Tongue, Irregularity in the action of the Bowels, Vomiting, etc

The Stomach suffers when the bowels are constipated, and Indigestion or follows Fetid Breath, Gastric Pains, Headache Acidity of the Stomach, Waterbrash Nervousness, and Depression, are all evidences of the presence of this distressing malady. A Sure Relief for irregularities of the Stomach and all consequent diseases, will be found in the use of AYER'S PILLS.

They stimulate the stomach, free the bowels, healthfully invigorate the torpid liver and kidneys, and by their cleansing, healing and tonic properties, strengthen and purify the whole system and restore it to a salutary and normal condition
